

COURSE OFFERED IN THE DOCTORAL SCHOOL

Code of the course	4606-ES-0000000-0278	Name of the course	Polish	Ekonomia rynku pracy: teoria i praktyka
			English	Labour Market Economics: Theory and Practice
Type of the course	specialized subject
Course coordinator	Prof. dr hab. Eugeniusz Kwiatkowski
Implementing unit	College of Economic and Social Sciences in Plock	Scientific discipline / disciplines*
Level of education	PhD	Semester	Summer
Language of the course	English
Type of assessment:	Passing the course for a grade	Number of hours in a semester	16	ECTS credits	1
Minimum number of participants	10	Maximum number of participants	20	Available for students (BSc, MSc)	Yes
Type of classes		Lecture	Auditory classes	Project classes	Laboratory	Seminar
Number of hours	Every second week	1		1
	in a semester	10		6

* does not apply to the Researcher's Workshop

1. Prerequisites

No prerequisites

2. Course objectives

The main objective of the course is to explain the operation of the labour market and develop the skills of analysing and interpreting labour market trends

3. Course content (separate for each type of classes)

Lecture

1. Labour market categories: labour supply, labour demand, wages
2. Stocks and flows in the labour market. Main labour market indicators
3. Labour market theories I: neoclassical and Keynesian
4. Labour market theories II: job search, natural unemployment, NAIRU
5. Policies to combat unemployment

Project classes

1. Trends in the Polish labour market
2. Labour market in Poland and other EU countries
3. Variation of regional and local labour markets in Poland

4. Learning outcomes

	Learning outcomes description	Reference to the learning outcomes of the WUT DS	Learning outcomes verification methods*
Knowledge
K01	Students understand the operation of the labour market, its determinants and effects	SD W1	Test
K02	Students know contemporary labour market theories,	SD W3	Test
K03	Students understand the dilemmas of state labour market policies	SD W2	Test
Skills

S01	Students are able to collect statistical data about the labour market and interpret the data	SD U1	Assessment of the presentation
S02	Students are able to indicate causes of the labour market changes	SD U4	Assessment of the presentation
S03	Students are able to present and assess trends in the national, regional and local labour markets	SD U2	Assessment of the presentation
Social competences
SC01	Students are ready to take part in the debates on labour market issues	SD K1	Assessment of the activity during the classes

*Allowed learning outcomes verification methods: exam; oral exam; written test; oral test; project evaluation; report evaluation; presentation evaluation; active participation during classes; homework; tests

5. Assessment criteria

- results of the test
- assessment of the presentation prepared at home
- assessment of the activity during the classes

6. Literature

Literatura podstawowa:

- [1] Cahuc P., Zylberberg A. (2004), Labor Economics, The MIT Press, Cambridge, Massachusetts; London, England.
 [2] Boeri T., van Ours J. (2008), Economics of Imperfect Labour Markets, Princeton University Press, Princeton.

Literatura uzupełniająca:

- [1] Eugeniusz Kwiatkowski, Przemysław Włodarczyk (2017), Employment Protection Legislation and Its Impact on the Elasticity of Employment in OECD Countries, "Gospodarka Narodowa", 3 (289), ss: 29-53, ISSN: 0867-0005.
 [2] Kucharski Leszek, Kwiatkowski Eugeniusz (2020), The Role of Labour in Contemporary Trends of Economic Growth, „Polityka Społeczna”, vol. 16, nr 1 (ang), 2020, s. 2-7, DOI:10.5604/01.3001.0014.5794
 [3] Kucharski L., Kwiatkowski Eugeniusz, Long-term unemployment in Poland between 2015 and 2019, „Studia Prawno-Ekonomiczne”, T. CXXII, 2022, s. 141-162, PL ISSN 0081-6841; e-ISSN 2450-8179, <https://doi.org/10.26485/SPE/2022/122/9>
 [4] Kwiatkowski Eugeniusz, Krzętowska Agnieszka, Gravitation Effects and the Economic Development of Poviats in the Mazowieckie Voivodeship 2010-2019, „European Research Studies Journal”, Vol. XXV, Issue 2, 2022, pp. 474 – 492, DOI: 10.35808/ersj/2948; link: <https://www.ersj.eu/journal/2948>

7. PhD student's workload necessary to achieve the learning outcomes

No.	Description	Number of hours
1	Hours of scheduled instruction given by the academic teacher in the classroom	16
2	Hours of consultations with the academic teacher, exams, tests, etc.	8
3	Amount of time devoted to the preparation for classes, preparation of presentations, reports, projects, homework	4
4	Amount of time devoted to the preparation for exams, test, assessments	4
Total number of hours		32
ECTS credits		1

 1 ECTS = 25-30 hours of the PhD students work (2 ECTS = 60 hours; 4 ECTS = 110 hours, etc.)